While the regime media continues its desperate attempt to blacklist GOP front-runner President Donald Trump from coverage, the leader of the MAGA movement has been rolling out one top-notch policy statement after another. One of Trump's recent announcements takes direct aim at the corrupt national security establishment, and reminds the American people why Trump was the first President in decades not to drag our nation into a pointless war. But if you listen closely, Trump gives up one detail that is perhaps one of the most subversive truths President Trump has ever uttered (and that is indeed saying something).

Here is the full statement:

JUST IN: Trump Warns 'World War III Has Never Bee...

If you listen closely, you can catch President Trump calling out a certain “Victoria Nuland,” and the State Department’s role in regime change operations in Ukraine. Here’s the transcript:

For decades, we’ve had the very same people, such as (current Under Secretary of State for Political Affairs) Victoria Nuland and many others just like her obsessed with pushing Ukraine toward NATO, not to mention the State Department support for uprisings in Ukraine.

These people have been seeking confrontation for a long time, much like the case in Iraq and other parts of the world. And now, we’re teetering on the brink of World War Three

Trump’s reference to NATO expansion identifies what many geopolitical observers have noted to be a major provocation against Russia — one that may have influenced Putin to initiate this tragic and prolonged “special operation” with Ukraine. See, for instance, the remarkable lecture by John Mearsheimer delivered over seven years ago on this issue:

Why is Ukraine the West's Fault? Featuring John Me...

While the foreign policy dangers of aggressive NATO expansionism are important to understand the broad strategic picture framing the dynamic between the United States, Ukraine, and Russia, Trump's more specific claims (and names) are far more directly damning.

Victoria Nuland, the woman whose name Trump dares to mention, offers both professionally and biographically a rare glimpse behind the veil into the true nature of power in the United States. Nuland currently serves in Biden's State Department as the undersecretary of state for political affairs, and previously served President Obama as undersecretary for European affairs from 2013 to 2017.

Given Nuland's status as an obsessive Russia hawk who serves in senior State Department positions in Democrat administrations (Biden, Obama), it might come as a surprise to some that her husband is none other than arch-neoconservative Robert Kagan, a key cheerleader for the war in Iraq under Bush and co-founder of the infamous Project for a New American Century, a "think-tank" dedicated to advancing the principles of Bush-era interventionism. In 2016 Kagan left the Republican Party in protest over Donald Trump, whom he described as a fascist.

That Obama's Russia war hawk and Bush's war hawk would be literal bedfellows in this case recapitulates in the most direct and intimate sense the primacy of the deep state over superficial and fake partisan divisions. It was this uniparty that Trump attacked and defeated in 2016, and in so doing shook the corrupt system to its very core.

As for Nuland herself, it is worth noting that she plays a key role in the bombshell report by Pulitzer Prize winner Seymour Hersh's story alleging that the US directly sabotaged the Nordstream 2 pipeline—incidentally, a topic about which Trump has also bravely spoken about with a level of candor and insight that is shocking for a politician.

Now we know why Nuland was so "gratified":

Seymour Hersh reveals how the US blew up Nord Stream 2 mate.substack.com/p/seymour-hers...

At a Senate hearing, top US diplomat Victoria Nuland celebrated the Nord Stream 2 pipeline bombing:

"Senator Cruz, like you, I am, and I think the administration is, very gratified to know that Nord Stream 2 is now, as you like to say, a hunk of metal at the bottom of the sea."

Irrespective of whether Hersh’s account is fully true or just partially true, Nuland’s role in American foreign affairs has been particularly dark and damaging. Trump directly refers to some of the most damaging chapters of Nuland’s career in his remarks on the US State Department’s involvements in uprisings and coup efforts in Ukraine—otherwise known as “color revolutions.”

We described the concept of a color revolution in a previous article as follows:

A “Color Revolution” in this context refers to a specific type of coordinated attack that the United States government has been known to deploy against foreign regimes, particularly in Eastern Europe deemed to be “authoritarian” and hostile to American interests. Rather than using a direct military intervention to effect regime change as in Iraq, Color Revolutions attack a foreign regime by contesting its electoral legitimacy, organizing mass protests and acts of civil disobedience, and leveraging media contacts to ensure favorable coverage to their agenda in the Western press. [\[Revolver\]](#)

One of the most infamous such color revolutions was the “Euromaidan,” revolution, in which the United States supported and coordinated a continuous barrage of protests, mass demonstrations, and other acts of civil disobedience in Ukraine in response to the contested election of Russia aligned Viktor Yanukovich, who defeated the Western-backed Viktor Yushchenko.

The principal US government figure associated with this Euromaidan uprising is none other than Victoria Nuland, who served as President Obama’s point person on Russia at the time.

Nuland was a year into her role as Obama’s assistant secretary for Europe. She had been in Kiev, frantically working behind the scenes to put in place a new governing coalition in Ukraine as it teetered on the brink of revolution against its Russia-backed leader, Viktor Yanukovich.

In this capacity, Nuland took the extra-ordinary step of personally speaking to the mass of protesters organized against the Russian-backed President Yanukovich.

Nuland's highly symbolic appearance in the square came a day after Secretary of State John Kerry issued a strong statement, expressing the United States' "disgust with the decision of Ukrainian authorities to meet the peaceful protest ... with riot police... [\[CBS\]](#)

Peaceful protests? Where have we heard that before?

Here is Nuland in Ukraine

What is relevant here is not whether Yanukovich rigged the election, or whether he would have been a better ruler for Ukraine. What is relevant is that the State Department's preferred candidate did not win, and the State Department, with the help of its constellation of friendly NGOs, helped to facilitate the overthrow of Yanukovich by contesting the legitimacy of the election, organizing mass protests and acts of civil disobedience, and leveraging media contacts to ensure favorable coverage to their agenda in the Western press.

Such aggressive and counter-productive meddling in foreign affairs of other nations has contributed drastically to the instability in the region. The most disturbing aspect of such color revolutions is not simply the foreign policy blowback, which is bad enough — it is the fact that the very same color revolution architects who meddle in reckless regime change projects overseas have taken to using the same tactics domestically in order to suppress Trump and cripple the broader America First movement that Trump invigorated and leads.

While Revolver News is now perhaps best known for our national narrative shaping reporting on the January 6 Fedurrection, our reporting first gained attention for our so-called Color Revolution series, documenting a handful of key color revolution professionals who were actively involved in neutralizing Trump's presidency and electoral prospects in 2020, and deploying the same tactics against Trump that they used against so-called "authoritarian" rulers overseas in Eastern Europe.

Here is a clip of Revolver News' Darren Beattie famously calling out Norm Eisen, a notorious color revolution professional and key hatchet man against Trump:

Revolver News' very first color revolution article featured a man called George Kent, a star impeachment witness against President Trump

Kent just happens to be Deputy Assistant Secretary in the European and Eurasian Bureau. This bureau is generally known as the State Department hub for so-called "Color Revolutions," through which the State Department, together with covert agencies and a constellation of allied NGOs influence, and at times overturn, elections in foreign countries. Indeed, one former senior state department official has told Revolver News that Kent is a "color revolution expert" — a designation that has been corroborated to Revolver by two current senior State Department sources.

Prior to his current role, Kent served as Deputy Chief of Mission in Kyiv, Ukraine (2015-18), working directly under the ousted star-impeachment witness Ambassador Yovanovitch. [\[Revolver News\]](#)

All of these color revolution professionals are part of the same networks. They all know each other, they're all friends, and they all work towards common political goals—which include eradicating so-called “populist” movements and leaders domestically the same way they eradicate overseas leaders who are targets of their tactics and methodologies.

This is ultimately what's so significant about Trump's announcement above. He not only called out State Department meddling in Ukraine, he called out Victoria Nuland specifically, and by doing so put the entire network of color revolution operatives on notice that he knows exactly who they are and what they've been up to.

You should do an Internet search for how many congressmen hold dual citizenship. Start with "the Big Jew" Schumer

... dual citizenship but citizens or aspiring citizens must take the oath of allegiance to the US which would automatically place their loyalty to the US above any other nation.

I know a few people in UK who also have US passports but US immigration can throw a hissy fit if you use both passports on the same journey to make life easier for your self IE: Leave US and Arrive in London - show British passport in London and sail through.....return to US - show US passport and sail through.

One US immigration bod castigated an 80+ year lady for doing this stating "we don't know where you've been if you do that, you can be arrested! "

Does he have the right to know where she has been? The over promoted gestapo bully!!!

Not to mention the clearances these people get. When I was in the process of getting my 1st security clearance the interviewing officers flipped because my mom was a dual citizen of Canada, and that I mentioned that I could also claim dual citizenship by birthright. They said "Full stop. I'll pretend I didn't just hear that." Let that sink in in light of all the "dual citizens" that make up the highest levels of the Administrative State; including Michael Chertoff himself, the former Secretary of the Department of Homeland Security under Bush the Lesser.

LoL. Actually, I clicked on my user name and they said it was "marked as spam" so I clicked on "its not spam" so now it is in review. It was my master comment--tons of links on the banking takeover, documentaries, books, founding father quotes, etc. I hope they let it through--we don't have much time to wake people up. In John Coleman's The Rothschild Dynasty book on archive dot org, last page says if nobody stops these people, the world will be in a brutal global dictatorship by 2025. they are already setting it up at the WHO right now.

Okay, I'll try to figure out how to hide my history. I hate disqus, makes it hard to get the word out. I'm doing better on substack--people there are not as brainwashed by the neocon crap, they realize something is VERY WRONG and are very curious, want to learn, receptive to info on hidden history and the banker takeover. Disqus is making it not worth the time. I sometimes post on gatekeeperpundit--too many brainwashed people there, I think I need to re-think how to do this. substack is seeming like better option. I can repeatedly post all my info on various substacks, ,get lots of likes, and never get deleted. Thanks for your help and suggestions

I'm totally not tech savvy. I have a problem accessing a forum where I store my info so the guys are said I had a pathway problem and to get a vpn, so i did that with proton and it did not fix the problem. Now I don't even know if I really have the vpn, I paid for it and downloaded, but I have no clue. I'll have a tech guy come out here, like I don't have enough going on with them crashing the world on us, so don't use Nord VPN. What do you recommend. I don't like this protonvpn because I don't see it for my other problem. Thanks for any suggestions.

I look into ExpressVPN. I completely believe everything you wrote--I actually listen to a radio show a while with a guy who used to be in tech, he trained intelligence people, on telecom stuff (so knew this is fake from day one--those phone calls were impossible, yet the sheep believe). And he said there are aelias in these high level security trainings he was doing and he was like WTF? So, I get it. I'm constantly on conservative sites, trying to redirect them as to the enemy--you don't need to look for an outside enemy- our enemy is here, based in DC, the US govt, captured by the banking cartel, is working to kill us with the bioweapon injections and enslave us in the bankers digital slave grid (digital ID and CBDCs). Believe me, I totally believe the hatred they have for us. Conservatives just keep falling for the psyops--don't get that the US govt is waging war on us (Mike Whitney did a good write up on that The Plan to Wreck America at unz.com. OK, thanks for the info, I'll look into the ExpressVPM.

Which anti-war policy? He invaded eastern Syria to steal their oil, with the aid of Marxist, drug-smuggling Kurds who are classified even by the U.S. as terrorists. "I like oil! We'll take the oil!" The Kurds ethnically cleanse villages, burn wheat fields and occupy Syria's northern water reserves.

Trump removed rules for the Pentagon's drone bombings of occupied peoples, leading to countless civilian deaths, for which no one was prosecuted.

Trump eagerly aided the Saudi dictator's slaughter of the people in Yemen, the worst humanitarian crisis in our lifetime. They deliberately targeted food supplies, with U.S. missiles and jets. They blockaded Yemen's ports to starve the people to death with Trump's approval.

True. But the attack on the Donbas area happened WAY before Trump ever took office. He also did not want to send 100 million dollars in arms to Ukraine. The political game is not multiple single events in one place, look at the macro side of it. The fact he helped the Russians in Syria was telling. The fact he was trying not to go to war, instead of working together was something the cabal didn't like. Why did they need to get rid of him if he is/was one of them? You can disagree with Trump about a lot of policies (mine is his vax-pushing crap), but he wanted peace and prosperity, and the globalist didn't like it. Go back and watch some of his speeches about how he wanted the US to become a part of the multi-polar approach, instead of being a hegemonized empire. It is the MAIN reason he is a threat like Lincoln, FDR, JFK, etc.

You and others are so focused on hating this tiny group of people.

You miss the big picture

These color revolution extremists have been attempting the same thing in Israel for at least twenty years.

It doesn't matter what their ethnicity is. They oppose populism wherever they see it. They seek total control and don't care about ethnicity.

The same story since the beginning. Good versus evil. Cain and Abel/ David and Goliath/ Jesus versus Judas/. Jesus and Judas were both Jews but one is the captain of the winning team while the other played a key role in a rebellion against a populist revolution led by Jesus.

Stop focusing on ethnicity and see the big picture

The Lord forgave the Jews on the cross. You should too.

Jesus, who is still Jewish, will return and establish his kingdom in Jerusalem.

Problem solved for good 👍
