Today is the anniversary of D-Day. This 1944 monumental operation stands as the largest land, sea, and air invasion ever attempted — remarkably, seventy-nine-years later and it’s still significant today.

The Allied forces embarked on a mission to turn the tide of World War II by launching a massive assault on Nazi-held Europe. The soldiers who courageously landed on the beaches of Normandy encountered tremendous challenges, but showed unwavering determination even in the face of disaster.

What’s truly fascinating about D-Day is how U.S. General Patton played a cunning “decoy role.” Patton was stationed in England in an effort to fool the Nazis into thinking the attack would happen north of Normandy. Like everyone else in the world, Patton found out about the Normandy invasion by tuning in to the BBC at seven o’clock in the morning on June 6, 1944. But Patton did more than just sit around as a “decoy.” Patton delivered a series of speeches known as “Patton’s Speech to the Third Army” in 1944, addressing the soldiers of the United States Third Army. These speeches were given before the Allied invasion of France and aimed to inspire and uplift the relatively inexperienced Third Army troops in preparation for their upcoming combat duties.

These speeches were highlighted in the famous 1970 movie “Patton”:

However, you may not be aware of this, but the Patton speech underwent a great deal of censorship to make it palatable for Hollywood. A significant spicy portion was entirely omitted from the movie speech. However, rest assured, we have managed to obtain it, so you can relive the fervor of D-Day. Here is the speech in its entirety.

From 5AD.org:

This is the full text of the speech Gen. Patton made prior to D-Day. The date was 5 June, 1944. Please be advised it is quite profane.

General Patton:

Be seated. Men, this stuff that some sources sling around about America wanting out of this war, not wanting to fight, is a crock of bullshit.

Americans love to fight, traditionally. All real Americans love the sting and clash of battle.

You are here today for three reasons. First, because you are here to defend your homes and your loved ones. Second, you are here for your own self respect, because you would not want to be anywhere else.

Third, you are here because you are real men and all real men like to fight.

When you, here, everyone of you, were kids, you all admired the champion marble player, the fastest runner, the toughest boxer, the big league ball players, and the All-American football players. Americans love a winner. Americans will not tolerate a loser. Americans despise cowards.

Americans play to win all of the time. I wouldn't give a hoot in hell for a man who lost and laughed. That's why Americans have never lost nor will ever lose a war; for the very idea of losing is hateful to an American.

You are not all going to die. Only two percent of you right here today would die in a major battle. Death must not be feared. Death, in time, comes to all men. Yes, every man is scared in his first battle. If he says he's not, he's a liar. Some men are cowards but they fight the same as the brave men or they get the hell slammed out of them watching men fight who are just as scared as they are.

The real hero is the man who fights even though he is scared.

Some men get over their fright in a minute under fire. For some, it takes an hour. For some, it takes days. But a real man will never let his fear of death overpower his honor, his sense of duty to his country, and his innate manhood. Battle is the most magnificent competition in which a human being can indulge. It brings out all that is best and it removes all that is base. Americans pride themselves on being He Men and they ARE He Men.

Remember that the enemy is just as frightened as you are, and probably more so. They are not supermen.

All through your Army careers, you men have bitched about what you call 'chicken shit drilling'. That, like everything else in this Army, has a definite purpose. That purpose is alertness. Alertness must be bred into every soldier. I don't give a fuck for a man who's not always on his toes. You men are veterans or you wouldn't be here. You are ready for what's to come. A man must be alert at all times if he expects to stay alive. If you're not alert, sometime, a German son-of-an-asshole-bitch is going to sneak up behind you and beat you to death with a sockful of shit!

There are four hundred neatly marked graves somewhere in Sicily, all because one man went to sleep on the job. But they are German graves, because we caught the bastard asleep before they did.

An Army is a team. It lives, sleeps, eats, and fights as a team. This individual heroic stuff is pure horse shit. The bilious bastards who write that kind of stuff for the Saturday Evening Post don't know any more about real fighting under fire than they know about fucking! We have the finest food, the finest equipment, the best spirit, and the best men in the world. Why, by God, I actually pity those poor sons-of-bitches we're going up against. By God, I do.

My men don't surrender, and I don't want to hear of any soldier under my command being captured unless he has been hit. Even if you are hit, you can still fight back That's not just bull shit either. The kind of man that I want in my command is just like the lieutenant in Libya, who, with a Luger against his chest, jerked off his helmet, swept the gun aside with one hand, and busted the hell out of the Kraut with his helmet. Then he jumped on the gun and went out and killed another German before they knew what the hell was coming off. And, all of that time, this man had a bullet through a lung. There was a real man!

All of the real heroes are not storybook combat fighters, either. Every single man in this Army plays a vital role. Don't ever let up. Don't ever think that your job is unimportant. Every man has a job to do and he must do it. Every man is a vital link in the great chain.

What if every truck driver suddenly decided that he didn't like the whine of those shells overhead, turned yellow, and jumped headlong into a ditch? The cowardly bastard could say, 'Hell, they won't miss me, just one man in thousands.' But, what if every man thought that way? Where in the hell would we be now? What would our country, our loved ones, our homes, even the world, be like?

No, Goddamnit, Americans don't think like that. Every man does his job. Every man serves the whole. Every department, every unit, is important in the vast scheme of this war.

The ordnance men are needed to supply the guns and machinery of war to keep us rolling. The Quartermaster is needed to bring up food and clothes because where we are going there isn't a hell of a lot to steal. Every last man on K.P. has a job to do, even the one who heats our water to keep us from getting the 'G.I. Shits'.

Each man must not think only of himself, but also of his buddy fighting beside him. We don't want yellow cowards in this Army. They should be killed off like rats. If not, they will go home after this war and breed more cowards. The brave men will breed more brave men. Kill off the Goddamned cowards and we will have a nation of brave men.

One of the bravest men that I ever saw was a fellow on top of a telegraph pole in the midst of a furious fire fight in Tunisia. I stopped and asked what the hell he was doing up there at a time like that. He answered, 'Fixing the wire, Sir.' I asked, 'Isn't that a little unhealthy right about now?' He answered, 'Yes Sir, but the Goddamned wire has to be fixed.' I asked, 'Don't those planes strafing the road bother you?' And he answered, 'No, Sir, but you sure as hell do!' Now, there was a real man. A real soldier. There was a man who devoted all he had to his duty, no matter how seemingly insignificant his duty might appear at the time, no matter how great the odds.

And you should have seen those trucks on the rode to Tunisia. Those drivers were magnificent. All day and all night they rolled over those son-of-a-bitching roads, never stopping, never faltering from their course, with shells bursting all around them all of the time. We got through on good old American guts. Many of those men drove for over forty consecutive hours. These men weren't combat men, but they were soldiers with a job to do. They did it, and in one hell of a way they did it. They were part of a team. Without team effort, without them, the fight would have been lost. All of the links in the chain pulled together and the chain became unbreakable.

Don't forget, you men don't know that I'm here. No mention of that fact is to be made in any letters. The world is not supposed to know what the hell happened to me. I'm not supposed to be commanding this Army. I'm not even supposed to be here in England. Let the first bastards to find out be the Goddamned Germans. Some day I want to see them raise up on their piss-soaked hind legs and howl, 'Jesus Christ, it's the Goddamned Third Army again and that son-of-a-fucking-bitch Patton'. We want to get the hell over there.' The quicker we clean up this Goddamned mess, the quicker we can take a little jaunt against the purple pissing Japs and clean out their nest, too. Before the Goddamned Marines get all of the credit.

Sure, we want to go home. We want this war over with. The quickest way to get it over with is to go get the bastards who started it. The quicker they are whipped, the quicker we can go home. The shortest way home is through Berlin and Tokyo. And when we get to Berlin I am personally going to shoot that paper hanging son-of-a-bitch Hitler. Just like I'd shoot a snake!

When a man is lying in a shell hole, if he just stays there all day, a German will get to him eventually. The hell with that idea. The hell with taking it. My men don't dig foxholes. I don't want them to. Foxholes only slow up an offensive. Keep moving. And don't give the enemy time to dig one either. We'll win this war, but we'll win it only by fighting and by showing the Germans that we've got more guts than they have; or ever will have.

We're not going to just shoot the sons-of-bitches, we're going to rip out their living Goddamned guts and use them to grease the treads of our tanks. We're going to murder those lousy Hun cock suckers by the bushel-fucking-basket. War is a bloody, killing business. You've got to spill their blood, or they will spill yours. Rip them up the belly. Shoot them in the guts. When shells are hitting all around you and you wipe the dirt off your face and realize that instead of dirt it's the blood and guts of what once was your best friend beside you, you'll know what to do!

I don't want to get any messages saying, 'I am holding my position.' We are not holding a Goddamned thing. Let the Germans do that. We are advancing constantly and we are not interested in holding onto anything, except the enemy's balls. We are going to twist his balls and kick the living shit out of him all of the time. Our basic plan of operation is to advance and to keep on advancing regardless of whether we have to go over, under, or through the enemy. We are going to go through him like crap through a goose; like shit through a tin horn!

From time to time there will be some complaints that we are pushing our people too hard. I don't give a good Goddamn about such complaints. I believe in the old and sound rule that an ounce of sweat will save a gallon of blood. The harder WE push, the more Germans we will kill. The more Germans we kill, the fewer of our men will be killed. Pushing means fewer casualties. I want you all to remember that.

There is one great thing that you men will all be able to say after this war is over and you are home once again. You may be thankful that twenty years from now when you are sitting by the fireplace with your grandson on your knee and he asks you what you did in the great World War II, you WON'T have to cough, shift him to the other knee and say, 'Well, your Granddaddy shoveled shit in Louisiana.' No, Sir, you can look him straight in the eye and say, 'Son, your Granddaddy rode with the Great Third Army and a Son-of-a-Goddamned-Bitch named Georgie Patton!'"

Imagine what the USA would be like if we had a leader like Patton, rather than woke General Milley. With Patton's strength, determination, and patriotism, our nation would be transformed into a strong and united force, as opposed to a society plagued by a bunch of neurotic worrywarts popping piles of prescription drugs and lobbing off their private parts.

Hopefully there's a modern-day Patton out there right now, gearing up to make a comeback, to help bring the USA back to her glory days.

If you go on like this DeSantis will be installed president and then he will extend the antisemitism law, unconstitutional, that he signed in Florida to the whole country. EVERYTHING said against communists will be "antisemitic" just like in Russia where Bolsheviks passed antisemitism laws to shut up the peasants BEFORE they ransacked every Christian church they could get their hands on and sent Christians to gulag slave labor camps

Is this what you are aiming for?

A certain Kissinger masterminded China's resurgence at America's expense. Biden self identifies as a Zionist. Are China and Isrel still allies?

Kissinger wanted to drive a wedge between Russia and China to win the Cold War. The real growth of China was after the Cold War when he was long out of office. Clinton and George W. Bush are the most responsible. China went from an economic midget to a major power on their watch. Russia wanted to join the West rather than China and they insisted on picking a fight with it and driving it into China's arms.

Re Kissinger wanted to drive a wedge between Russia and China

Makes one wonder how the Sino-Soviet border conflict of 1969 was brought about.

It is not surprising that Kissinger choose to side with China that at the time was in the middle of its Great Cultural Proletariat Revolution with its eventual 50-70 million victims that is just shy of the carnage of WW2 where 75-80 million people perished

Re Clinton and Bush were the most responsible

Kissinger was not shy about his role in masterminding China's resurgence at America's expense, he viewed this as his greatest geopolitical achievement and comes off as self-congratulatory in his books "Kissinger on China" and "Kissinger on Kissinger".

President Eisenhower Warned President Kennedy about the dangers of the military industrial complex. He also reviewing the data himself when the military (USAF) told him about the "bomber gap" and the "missile gap" and afterwards canceled multiple programs as unnecessary and he was right. Unfortunately, Kennedey was killed before he could act to rein in the cia and the military industrial complex and we have been at their mercy ever since. Look at the programs they have in place that have taken decades to field only to be less than was promised:

- 8 Zumwalt Class Destroyer — $22 Billion (Navy)
- 7 RAH-66 Comanche — $7 Billion (Army)
- 6 Future Combat Systems — $32 Billion (Army)
- 3 Seawolf Class Submarines — $3 Billion Each (Navy)
- 1 F-22 Raptor $32.4 Billion (Air Force)
- Rail Gun— $500 million (Navy)
- Advanced Amphibious Assault Vehicle $3 billion (Marines)

And then there is the programs no one really knows anything about, how much they cost, what they do or when they will be fielded.

Attacking Pearl Harbor was still one of the greatest strategic blunders in history. Japan could have left the US alone and just taken the Dutch East Indies to get the oil that they could not get from the US. The US was in no position to stop them. It would have been politically impossible for FDR to have gotten a declaration of war over that. Japan just needed to take the territories that had the war materials that they needed. War with the US was suicide. They had a decent chance if they had avoided starting it and just ignored US provocation.

Japan attacked and invaded China, and other countries, without provocation you idiot! Why should the U.S. have kept selling them stuff that fueled their invasions? Japan took a calculated risk to build an empire, and they paid the ultimate price. Their decisions ultimately allowed the coward Mao to come to power in China.

What they are doing to our military is part of a long term plan. They have corrupted the FBI, CIA, DOJ and the judiciary. Many of our military officers are corrupt but they still fear the power of the everyday soldier. That is why they are purging the true patriots from the rank and file with excuses like they wouldn't take the Covid vaccine. Patriot soldiers who may refuse to kill civilians must be removed.
