Dr. Pierre Kory: COVID-19 Vaccine Shedding is Not Only Real but “Very Common”

“Everybody thinks shedding – it’s only the unvaccinated who are screaming, right? ... That’s not true. I have vaccine-injured... Show more

“Shedding is unfortunately real,” said Dr. Pierre Kory at the Front Line COVID-19 Clinical Conference (FLCCC) conference in Phoenix, Arizona, in early February. “The FDA (U.S. Administration) knows that.”

Dr. Kory is a co-founder of the FLCCC, a non-profit advocacy group founded for the treatment of COVID-19, long COVID, and postvaccine syndromes. He is also the founder of Leading Edge Clinic and has treated over a thousand long-COVID and post-

COVID-19 syndromes. Mainstream fact-checkers have largely denied shedding on the basis of the current definition of shedding, which comes from the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. The current definition of shedding is the release of viruses, bacteria, and their components from live products. While mRNA and adenovirus vaccines are not live vaccines, they function like live products.

All gene therapy products pose a risk of shedding, according to the FDA.

FDA Documents

In a 2015 document titled Design and Analysis of Shedding Studies for Vir Therapy and Oncolytic Products, the FDA defines shedding as “the release therapy products] ... from the patient through one or all of the following w (urine, saliva, nasopharyngeal fluids etc.); or through the skin (pustules, sc

Similarly, mRNA and adenovirus COVID-19 vaccines may cause vaccinated proteins or other vaccine components, Dr. Kory explained.

For example, COVID-19 mRNA has been found in the breast milk of vaccin possible exposure of the vaccine to infants. Another study showed that spi COVID-19 vaccination, can last for at least half a year in the blood of vacci prolonged spike protein persistence.

The FDA, however, denied that the 2015 document applies to COVID mRN.

“COVID-19 vaccines are not regulated as gene therapy products by the FD document cited is not applicable to the COVID-19 vaccines,” an FDA spoke Times.

Pfizer Investigators Told to Report ‘Environmental Exposures

Another piece of evidence resides in Pfizer documents, Dr. Kory added.

In Pfizer’s COVID mRNA vaccine protocol, the company instructs investigat exposures” if trial participants expose people around them to the vaccine t contact.

Examples of such environmental exposures are noted as follows:

- “A male participant who is receiving or has discontinued [vaccine] interver prior to or around the time of conception.”

another person.

“An example of environmental exposure during breastfeeding,” Pfizer writes or healthcare provider who reports that she is breastfeeding after having been given an intervention (the vaccine) by inhalation or skin contact.”

Pfizer’s Documents Showing Indirect Exposure

Pfizer has documented hundreds of adverse events that occurred as a result of exposure to babies during pregnancy or breastfeeding.

In its Periodic Safety Report submitted to the European Union, Pfizer lists events deemed not attributable to the vaccine and that should be excluded from clinical trials.

The document listed 22 cases of adverse events in babies who had received mRNA boosters, suggesting exposure other than a direct vaccination.
