Something odd is going down with America's bridges. From an outsider's perspective, it's hard not to wonder if there's a deliberate attempt to target our bridges, or if we've just hit a peak in incompetence thanks to the "DEI" mindset, or maybe our infrastructure is just falling apart right in front of us.

We've been keeping tabs on the sorry state of America's infrastructure for years.

Revolver:

Infrastructure has been a popular cause on the right since Donald Trump's presidential run began six years ago, and for good reason. If President Trump had started his first term with a massive bipartisan infrastructure project that included the Wall rather than following GOP hack Paul Ryan's tax cut agenda, the country would almost certainly be better off. Spending money to develop America and improve the lives of citizens is a much better use of the country's wealth than fighting forever wars in the Hindu Kush or simply keeping half the country on the dole in one form or another.

But there needs to be a degree of realism as well. In the country America has become, it's never as simple as just spending money on infrastructure instead of warfare and welfare. Without truly ambitious, far-reaching reforms and a competent, non-corrupt leadership class to implement them, infrastructure is either a spoils system for special interest clients or simply an expensive effort to maintain a crumbling status quo.

Biden's Infrastructure Bill Reveals the Poverty of Modern America's Ambitions

Could it be a mix of all three? Whatever it is, with three bridge-related incidents in just the last week, it's got a lot of Americans paying attention and asking themselves, "What the heck is happening?" Naturally, the powers that be are quick to tell us to look away, assuring us lightning-fast that everything is fine and it's all just one big coincidence, and if you dare to question anything you see, you're labeled a tin-foil conspiracy freak.

Sadly, we all saw what happened to the bridge in Baltimore.

Baltimore Francis Scott Key Bridge - Breakdown

Shortly after, there was this "spontaneous" fire that just happened to break out under a bridge in Ohio. Just a coincidence, right, folks? Don't you dare worry about it or question anything.

Ohio - "Spontaneous Combustion" Causes Massive Fire Underneath Valley View Bridge

And now, a barge just struck another bridge, this time in Oklahoma on the Arkansas River, where the bridge pillar and the cargo ship were damaged. Again, it's purely a coincidence; there's nothing to see here.

The U.S. 59 Bridge was Struck by a Barge over the Arkansas River

- The Oklahoma Highway Patrol responded to Sequoyah County after a barge hit a bridge near the Kerr Lock & Dam in Sallisaw, Oklahoma
- US-59 was shut down for a time while investigators responded and inspected the condition of the bridge.
- ODOT says engineers inspected the bridge and declared it safe for travel. The highway has since reopened.
- That channel the barge was traveling through will remain closed until the winds slow down for the beams to be removed from the river, authorities said.

A large barge hit a bridge over the Arkansas River in Oklahoma prompting a nearby major highway to temporarily close Saturday, the highway patrol said.

According to the Oklahoma Highway Patrol, the barge rammed into the bridge near the Kerr Lock & Dam on Saturday afternoon.

Troopers closed South U.S. Highway 59 about 1:25 p.m. after receiving word of the incident and diverted traffic from the area, state patrol spokesperson Sarah Stewart said.

There were no reports of injuries on the highway or the barge, Stewart said.

It was not immediately known what caused the barge to hit the bridge.

But, of course, they're quick to assure us that everything is just fine and we're not under any sort of attack. At this point, it's a choice between taking the "experts" word for it or trusting what you see with your own eyes.

Your choice.

If you've been watching closely, these bridge incidents are starting to feel a lot like the recent wave of train derailments and those food manufacturing plants that were catching fire all over the place. It was like someone decided to have a massive barbecue and forgot to invite us.

Remember when all the food processing plants mysteriously were exploding & catching on fire one after another? It will be interesting to keep an eye on United States main infrastructure across the country the next several months..

Something's off; there's no doubt about it. Now, we're not here to spread baseless claims, but trusting what you see and hear yourself has its strong points. Think about it—if folks had been more skeptical of the “experts” during the whole COVID mess, we might have come out the other side in much better shape.

They both are. Can't you see it yet? Our side(Republicans) do nothing to stop the madness. They still want to fund the Ukraine war while world war III is about to happen.

Yes. The Republicans are feckless morons who are basically a controlled opposition.

But literally every Democrat is an enemy. Not just the politicians and bureaucrats, all of them. Right down to your neighbor with the Bidet yard sign. All. Of. Them. Try to stay focused on the enemy.

It's all Uniparty these days. With a few exceptions that are treated as pariahs by the political class.

The parties are hand-in-glove, although the GOP makes sure to articulate "disapproval" to keep the fundraising alive and kicking. Just need to look at all the spending bills that get rammed through, containing not only pork but anti-citizen, anti-constitutional policy and outright sabotage.

Try to stay focused on the nauseating reality.

Democrats are trying to turn the Republic into a democracy by weaponizing the justice department against their political rivals, importing a peasant army for our next civil war, suppressing our 1st Amendment rights, crushing the 2nd Amendment and gutting our Constitution. Clearly Democrats don't know how a Democracy works.

Thank you for your exposition on motives and their 'strategy'. I hesitate to call it thus, as it is simply motivated from jealousy, a desire to acquire and to dominate. Commies are nothing more than petty tyrants with a gang. You have a special power that I lack: you may vote.

However this article is a bunch of BS. How many ports are there in the world? How many large vessels traverse these thoroughfares a year? Boating accidents happen.

Go down and watch Galveston Bay marine traffic any afternoon. There are more large (VERY) freighters than you can imagine. Every 2 minutes another one. Guess what? Like trains they dont stop on dime...and they are very hard to turn.

Boats ramming bridges is a top cause of marine fatalities in Florida.

Here's you a list of bridge collapses due to ships hitting them in the US from 1960-2015, there were 7 in 55 years. The only thing close to 'rapid fire' incidents was in 1993 when there were 2. Worldwide during that time there were only 35, hardly common by my standards.

Sorry, I don't use Instagram or any other brain killing social media. But thank you for trying to point out all the constant bridge collapse mayhem. A few questions about your list of 3... 1) Huh? 2) Who is in on this bridge disaster collusion? 3) Is there a difference between a boat hitting a bridge and a huge tanker, with backup steering systems and carrying thousands of containers bringing a bridge down? BTW...if your research and knowledge comes from Instagram, I'd keep that to myself. But then I know that Instagram is probably a way better place to get facts than say a place like Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission...those bozos claim "Florida had 735 boating accidents in 2022, 16 fewer than in 2021. A total of 65 people lost their lives in these accidents, five more than the previous year. Since 2003, falls overboard has been the leading type of fatal accident, with drowning as the leading cause of death. Of the drowning victims, 81% were not wearing a life jacket." I can't believe they forgot to mention the bridges that caused these accidents!! They should check Instagram.
